Protect Your Business

How can you tell which products in your home are hazardous? If the label says CAUTION, WARNING, DANGER or POISON.

Call the Household Hazards Line at 206-296-4692 for questions on hazardous products, disposal and less toxic alternatives.

Dispose of hazardous products at no cost.* Find city and tribal collection events on the events calendar, and Wastemobile and facility schedules at www.HazWasteHelp.org

Home collection service is available for people 65 and older, or residents with disabilities.

Businesses or individuals can drop off up to ten used fluorescent lights per day at over 30 locations in the Puget Sound area at no charge. Visit www.LightRecycle.org to find a collection site near you.

The Garden Hotline has practical advice on less toxic lawn and garden chemicals and techniques, 206-633-0224; www.GardenHotline.org

MY CHECKLIST

- Avoid products that say Caution-Warning-Danger or Poison on the label.
- Don't mix chemicals! they can create dangerous gases or reactions.
- Keep hazardous materials in their original containers for the safety information and labels.
- Store toxic products out of reach. They can look like food and sports drinks.

- Dust with a damp cloth often. Household dust can hold chemicals, lead, mold, and pesticides.
- Avoid scented products that can cause breathing problems.
- Safely dispose of products you don't want or use.
- Keep medicines stored securely and dispose of them safely (www.TakeBackYourMeds.org)
- Toxic products have special risks for children because of their small size and growing bodies. And the health effects can be lifelong.
